FROM THE REGULATIONS OF THE UNIVERSITY CONCERNING INSPECTION TRIPS

Inspection trips may be permitted in those departments of the University which can fully justify them on the basis of educational policy, but in such cases these trips must become a regular part of the curriculum required of all students taking a particular group of subjects in the department.

After returning from an inspection trip, each student must submit an acceptable report on the trip, or pass an examination to determine the extent and accuracy of the information secured. The instructor must report to the Registrar the grade obtained by the student, as in the case of regular courses of instruction.

An itinerary of the trip, containing brief descriptions, of the places to be visited and all necessary information and rules for the guidance of students and instructors, is to be distributed some time prior to the date set for the trip. A copy of the itinerary and a circular letter describing the University regulations regarding inspection trips are to be sent to the student's parents or guardians before the trip. This letter should call attention to the fact that the University asumes no responsibility for accidents which may occur during the trip.

The instructors in charge of a party must keep a roll containing the same list of the students which was reported to the Deans. The roll should be called at each place visited. Repeated absence from the roll-call should be sufficient excuse for the instructor to dismiss a student from the party.

Any student who fails to observe proper rules of conduct during an inspection trip should be reported to the Committee on Discipline.

From the Regulations of the University Concerning Inspection Trips

Inspection trips may be permitted in those departments of the University which can fully justify them on the basis of educational policy, but in such cases these trips must become a regular part of the curriculum required of all students taking a particular group of subjects in the department.

After returning from an inspection trip, each student must submit an acceptable report on the trip, or pass an examination to determine the extent and accuracy of the information secured. The instructor must report to the Registrar the grade obtained by the student, as in the case of regular courses of instruction.

An itinerary of the trip, containing brief descriptions of the places to be visited and all necessary information and rules for the guidance of students and instructors, is to be distributed some time prior to the date set for the trip. A copy of the itinerary and a circular letter describing the University regulations regarding inspection trips are to be sent to the student's parents or guardians before the trip. This letter should call attention to the fact that the University assumes no responsibility for accidents which may occur during the trip.

The instructors in charge of a party must keep a roll containing the same list of students which was reported to the Deans. The roll should be called at each place visited. Repeated absence from the roll-call should be sufficient excuse for the instructor to dismiss a student from the party.

Any student who fails to observe proper rules of conduct during an inspection trip should be reported to the Committee on Discipline.

From the Regulations of the University Concerning the Inspection Trips

Inspection trips may be permitted in those departments of the University which can fully justify them on the basis of educational policy, but in such cases these trips must become a regular part of the curriculum required of all students taking a particular group of subjects in the department.

After returning from an inspection trip, each student must submit an acceptable report on the trip, or pass an examination to determine the extent and accuracy of the information secured. The instructor must report to the Registrar the grade obtained by the student, as in the case of regular courses of instruction.

An itinerary of the trip, containing brief descriptions of the places to be visited and all necessary information and rules for the guidance of students and instructors, is to be distributed some time prior to the date set for the trip. A copy of the itinerary and a circular letter describing the University regulations regarding inspection trips are to be sent to the student's parents or guardians before the trip. This letter should call attention to the fact that the University assumes no responsibility for accidents which may occur during the trip.

The instructors in charge of the party must keep a roll containing the same list of students which was reported to the Deans. The roll should be called at each place visited. Repeated absence from the roll-call should be sufficient excuse for the instructor to dismiss a student from the party.

Any student who fails to observe proper rules of conduct during an inspection trip should be reported to the Committee on Discipline.
